NEW BUSINESS

Intellectual Property of Faculty Notes – Dr. Pennington reported

Dr. Schell is working on a review of the www.sherlocknotes.com website. Dr. Chopra asked that this issue be moved to the next meeting. It was approved unanimously. Dr. Schell will draft a statement and anyone is welcome to review.

Conflict of Interest – Dr. Soileau

Dr. Soileau gave an informative PowerPoint presentation on Conflict of Interest/Conflict of Commitment forms and related issues.

- The recurring theme is that if faculty are in doubt, they should seek guidance from their supervisor or the Office of Research and Commercialization (ORC).
- Faculty were advised to request a timeframe for response to their questions regarding possible conflicts; the department is attempting to process online. Currently, if a week or two has lapsed, faculty are encouraged to call for a response.
- Compensation – stipend for FCTL is not a conflict; a conflict arises when the activity takes place outside the university. Any expenses, if paid honorium above expenses, should be approved. Nine-month faculty should disclose outside activities as they are considered on extended contract. Service on Federal Grant review panels is considered as part of university work.
- Conflict of Interest and Conflict of Commitment is in state law – A & P and USP right now does not have Conflict of Committee but should. Dr. Soileau to review this requirement.
- The forms are reviewed by immediate supervisor and supervisor's supervisor; Dr. Soileau is consulted as needed.
- Should there be a conflict; a conference is held with the person to develop a plan to resolve.
- The bottom-line is that faculty should “disclose” any potential conflicts of interest and commitment on a timely basis. Dr. Huff-Corzine in Faculty relations is an important contact person for more information and clarifications.

Federal Research Priorities – Greg Schuckman

Greg Schuckman offered an informative report outlining his role as Assistant VP University Relations based in Washington DC. He has been with UCF for 6 ½ years. The federal research priorities here at UCF are a bottom-up process. Every Fall term, an RFP comes out and information is distributed through the Campus listserv. Faculty are asked to submit ideas in the form of a white paper; A selection committee met on Nov 27th to hear proposals that may merit congressional funding possibilities.

Faculty Senate Meeting
October 26, 2006

The applications are considered based on technical review/match with UCF priorities; and the political climate - how the work might impact FL delegation. Example of recently funded projects include: (a) system-wide NASA funded hydrogen activities – seven different universities in FL – UCF portion over five years in excess of 25 million. (b) energy transport/storage – NASA needs in respect to hydrogen. (c) nanophotonics fabrication – these funds useful for expensive instruments.
